Student Transition Assessment Tool – Revised Standard Student Version

Guidelines for Administration and Scoring

Student Focused Administration:

- The STAT-R was designed with the intent that the student would complete the assessment individually and mark their responses based on their knowledge.
- A "yes" means the student absolutely knows the information or possesses the skill. If any doubt, the item should be answered "no".
- Given that students taking the STAT-R are adolescents, it is suggested that the students complete the assessment in the presence of an adult to assure that they are taking the process seriously.
- Adult mentors: The adult that assists in the administration of the STAT-R could be a teacher, caseworker, teacher consultant, etc.

Group Administration:

• The STAT-R can be given in small groups as long as the administrator or evaluator interacts with students individually to assure the validity of their answers.

Repeat Administration:

- The STAT-R can be re-administered, yearly or every two years, to assess student progress toward achieving transition goals.
- The same forms can be reused. Have the person taking the STAT-R use a different color pen and re-evaluate the "no" answers to see if they are now a "yes". Then re-total the yes answers for updated scoring.
- The score sheet allows for tracking the student over a five-year period, from 8th grade through 12th grade, or over several years in an ungraded setting.

Scoring With Excel/CD:

- Insert student demographic information.
- Insert Raw Scores (total of yes responses) for each section.
- · Raw Scores automatically convert to percentages.
- Percentages yielded are general guidelines to identify areas of strength and concern 80 - 100% Strength, 50 - 79% Developing Skills, 0 - 49% Concern
- "No" answers can be converted to transition goals, services, or activities.

Parent Version:

• Can be given to compare the responses of the student and the parent regarding the skills and abilities of the student.
